WARRANTED

W. L. DOUGLAS Shoes are stylish, easy fitting, and give better satisfaction at the prices advertised than any other make. Try one pair and be convinced. The stamping of W. L. Douglas' name and price on the bottom, which guarantees their value, saves thousands of dollars annually to those who wear them. Dealers who push the sale of W. L. Douglas Shoes gain customers, which helps to increase the output of the factory. They can afford to sell at a less profit, because the cost of the shoes is so low. We believe you can save money by buying W. L. Douglas shoes. Write for a free catalog and see upon application. W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

A GREY reveal is in progress in this city. Men, women and children are being converted by the score. Religion is a good thing to have and everybody ought to have it. No out to church and hear the preaching, the crying, the singing and the good sisters about. It won't hurt you and there's a chance for it doing you good. Get in touch with a believing, try to love your neighbor, more and yourself love and you'll feel better.

How's Polk LaFoon and T. B. Vance candidates for Congress in the Second district spoke at Haverhill Monday. They both made good speeches. Mr. LaFoon's, in particular, being in pleasing contrast to many of the Democratic speakers these times, in that he stands up for Cleveland and his administration and says he has the utmost confidence in his ability to pull it through. Mr. Vance is a very pleasant and polished speaker and made a good impression on his hearers.

Keep your eye on the label of your paper. Don't let it show that it is ever behind with your subscription. It is an easy matter to keep just a few months ahead. If you haven't a dollar handy, send us one, and if it's not convenient to do this, send a quarter. What ever you do, don't let it run along for months and then write us a postal to discontinue, saying you never ordered the paper. It is honest to read a man's paper for three or six months and then refuse to pay for it. The best way, if you don't intend to pay for it, is to have it discontinued at once.

The Democrats have not done all the good in the year they have been in power, but still the record is one to be proud of. They have repealed the silver purchase law, wiped that menace of liberty, the election laws, from the statute books, the pension appropriation has been reduced $15,000 a year and the House has passed a tariff reform bill, if not so good as the tariff, still a long step in the right direction. There have been blunders and delinquencies, but the record is a pretty fair one.

We understand that the Legislature has repealed the law that compels school trustees to pay school taxes. There has been a great deal of complaint through the country about this law and if it has been repealed the people will be pleased over it.

MEADE'S FAVORITE SON.

The Primary Waxeth Warm in Democratic Meade, and Dick Nevitt.

Seems to Lead.

From all appearances the Democratic primary in Meade county is up to the old-time fever heat, and as usual the fight seems to be centered on the race for County Court Clerk. R. H. Nevitt, F. R. McLaughlin and J. R. Willett are the candidates.

While each aspirant claims the victory and seems confident of winning, it is evident to a bystander that the race is a pretty fair one. Dick Nevitt is the leader.

Dick Nevitt is a great favorite in Meade, and while his opponents are worthy gentlemen, they find it hard to shake the confidence that the democracy and the people at large repose in genial, clever, bighearted Dick. Mr. Nevitt is the present incumbent of the office and his record as an efficient officer is so clear that the general impression seems to be that he deserves an endorsement. The people recognize the fact that it is no use so long to become familiar with the duties of the office that, when there are no other objections it is to their interest, as well as a measure of justice to the efficient officer, to give him at least one more year.

Other things are to Nevitt's advantage. The people say that he has favored them in more ways than making a good clerk in 1925 and again in 1927 when the State Board of Equalization had raised the assessment of property in Meade county Dick Nevitt was appointed on the Committee, by the County Judge, to go to Frankfort and make an argument before the Board against the raise. In each instance his familiarity with the revenue laws, his convincing argument, his earnest, open, honest, far-seeing carried conviction to the Board, and Meade county was saved several thousand dollars. The people know this and they feel that they cannot afford to look with indifference upon his request to be returned as a public servant.

Nevitt's popularity is not confined to Meade county. As a clerk he is recognized everywhere as one of the finest in the State, and as a capable gentleman he is loved wherever he is known. He is always the same pleasant fellow whenever or wherever he appears, and another's beams of his honest face shine with pleasure upon his friends, and he has no enemies.

This is the way that Meade county people talk. It's their return to the Clerk's office is almost assured.

FATALLY SHOT.

Henry C. Vargason, Formerly of Stephensport, Receives a Death Wound at Uniontown.

The Owensboro Messenger, yesterday, gave the following account of the shooting of a former Breckinridge county boy—Henry C. Vargason, a cooper, who formerly lived here, was shot and probably fatally wounded at Uniontown Saturday night by a shotman named Cook.

Cook had a shotboat which was moored at the landing in front of Uniontown. Vargason, in company with a man named Lindsey, went to the boat Saturday night after the above was over and were refused admittance. The shotman is said to have used extremely vile language towards them. This angered Vargason and Lindsey, who stepped ashore and cut the rope which held the boat to her moorings. One of them fired a pistol at the boat as it began to move down the river.

Cook then came to the door armed with a double barrel shotgun and fired at the men, who were not more than thirty feet away. A full charge of No. 4 shot struck Vargason in the breast. A buckshot which was in the charge of a cooper, through his body. Though mortally wounded, Vargason was still alive when last heard from. Cook and Lindsey were both arrested and are now awaiting the result of Vargason's injuries.

It is said that the difficulty came up over a woman connected with the above.

Vargason was raised in Breckinridge county, but resided in Owensboro for a number of years. He is a half-brother of Messrs. George and Charles Vargason and Mrs. Henry Taylor of this city. The latter two and Mr. Taylor went to Uniontown yesterday to visit him.

Amie

An American Story Full of the Romance and Mystery of the East.

A STRANGE, WEIRD, FASCINATING STORY OF LOVE AND HATE, TOLD IN A NOVEL MANNER, VIVID IN THE PICTURING OF EXCITING SITUATIONS.

Full of Virility and Dramatic Power, Stirring and Effective, Charming and Exciting.

THE READER FEELS THAT HE IS MORE THAN A SPECTATOR OF THE EVENTS AND TAKES A PERSONAL INTEREST IN THE UNFOLDING OF THE PLOT.

A Masterly Tale By America's Leading Author, Julian Hawthorne.

The little thing blank—now no longer blank—now I picked up in the town and country and made a journal of it. It has but a few pages left, and when it is finished shall not begin another. So close the Creator of my pen, and let the white of its pages and the black of its lines and trace black marks upon it and then find it. But what you read? Angels, cherubs, and such at what they read, and devil read them and tear them to pieces and laugh. But no soul interjects to follow me, it cannot even tempt itself. It knows that it is no longer white, and that it is all.

Stirring has been with me, and now I am alone again. My library is cool and quiet, and the laughter shines upon the backs of the books upon the shelves, and yonder the door opens into the balcony, which is dark, and in three rooms my days and years have been spent, and no my life—that has been lived elsewhere, it is immortal! It may be, but it is immortality to me. Will it give me life?

"All the obstacles that separated us have disappeared," I said to her. "One after another they are gone. If there is any other thing to keep us apart, it must be in you and nowhere else. You know why I look at you upon myself. Do you forgive it?"

"What sin?" she asked.

"Oh, that."

"Oh, that?"

"Oh, that?"

"Oh, that?"

"How do you wish to be under a false accusation?" said I.

"How do you wish to be false?" she returned.

"At any rate, I know it."

"Perhaps, then," she said, "I may have wished to save the one who was really guilty. Why should I not care to live? The man who had given my life work was gone. What had I left?"

"Then you loved him still?" I exclaimed.

"She gave me a strange look. 'Loved him? I never loved him. From the time I first heard his name I hated him.'"

"Surely you did not love him, only too well!"

"Have you thought so little of me as that?" she replied, almost in a moment.

"After that pause she said, 'I will tell you a little story which will perhaps help you to understand it. A good many years ago a gentleman who had a wife and a little daughter saw and loved a woman who was young and wonderfully beautiful. A man may love as many women as he pleases, but he can bring honor to only one at most. To all the rest his love means disgrace."

"Then why did you love him?" I demanded in astonishment.

"Then why did you love him?" I demanded in astonishment.

"After that pause she said, 'I will tell you a little story which will perhaps help you to understand it. A good many years ago a gentleman who had a wife and a little daughter saw and loved a woman who was young and wonderfully beautiful. A man may love as many women as he pleases, but he can bring honor to only one at most. To all the rest his love means disgrace."

one will not be there. And at last in truth, she was not there. I repeated myself in my chair I was inclined, had just to ask myself whether such a creature as Sinfone ever really existed.

BRECKENRIDGE NEWS.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 29, 1894.

THE PRIMARY.

Rules Governing the Recording of Votes with Further Instructions from the Chairman.

Should Be Read Carefully by the Officers and all Democratic Voters.

APRIL 7, THE DATE.

The primary election is to be held under the following rules prescribed by the County Committee.

First.—That all legal voters, or those who will be so at the November election who are known Democrats, or persons that have affiliated with the Democratic party in the past, or who in good faith propose to do so in the future, and will agree to support the nominees of the primary, will be permitted to vote in this primary.

Second.—Any person of whom the Judges of the election have doubt as to his qualifications as required above shall be asked the following question, viz: "Do you intend to affiliate with the Democratic party and to vote for its nominees at the next election?" and if the person proposing to vote answers in the affirmative he shall be permitted to vote and the same shall be recorded.

Third.—That the Chairman of this Committee shall be and is empowered to do all things necessary under the general law, and under the proceedings of this meeting of the committee to prepare for, hold and conduct the primary election, and shall be the governing authority of the party under said law for such purpose.

Fourth.—According to these rules, no person will be legal voters at the November election, will be entitled to vote.

Fifth.—Those who will have had residence in any precinct a sufficient length of time to entitle him to vote at the November election, may vote in the primary in the precinct where he resides at the time of the primary.

Sixth.—Some question has been raised as to whether under the primary election law, the two foregoing classes of voters were entitled to vote, but to meet this objection I have procured the written agreement of the candidates to make no objection thereto.

Seventh.—Officers will be careful to be sworn before entering on their duties, and to sign the oath, printed in the ballot book.

Eighth.—Officers will immediately after the close of the polls, in the voting room, count the ballots, and fill out the return printed on the inside of the cover of the stub book.

Ninth.—Officers will destroy the ballots voted, mutilated or spoiled and those not used in voting, preserving any ballot as to which there is any doubt or difference of opinion as to its legality or regularity and sealing such ballots up and returning them with the poll book.

Tenth.—The stub-book with the returns and the doublet lands shall be sealed up by the officers and delivered to the sheriff of the poll, who shall deposit the same to me on or before Thursday, April 12th at my office in Cloverport, Ky.

Eleventh.—The sheriff of the election will see that the voting room, ballot boxes, booths, stencils and pads are provided in each precinct and a rope or other barrier placed so as to exclude all except officers, from within fifty feet of the polls.

Twelfth.—The County Committee will meet at Harlanburg on Saturday the 11th day of April at 2 o'clock p. m. to canvass the returns.

Thirteenth.—The extra return blanks are sent to each poll so that the Judges may retain duplicates, or so that any inspector, if any, may have duplicates, if demanded.

Fourteenth.—If any officer shall fail to appear at the poll within 30 minutes after 7 o'clock in the morning or shall refuse to act, the officers in attendance shall fill the vacancy or vacancies.

If none of the officers appear, the voters present shall elect officers vice vac.

Fifteenth.—If any officer does not wish to charge for his services he will please notify me at once after the election.

Sixteenth.—I have attempted to give a brief summary of my duties, but there are duties not mentioned and a copy of the election law should be at the voting place so that the same may be complied with, that in all things this primary shall be conducted legally and fairly.

DAVID R. MURRAY, Chairman.

Value of Hands and Fingers.
The comparative value of the hands and fingers is fixed in a scale of the Miner's Union and Miner's Insurance Company of Germany. The loss of both hands is reckoned as a depreciation in working capacity of 90 per cent; of the right hand 70 to 80 per cent, varying with occupation; left hand, 60 to 70 per cent; thumb, 30 to 35 per cent; right fore-finger, 25 to 30 per cent; third finger, least in value, 7 to 9 per cent. Right finger, 9 to 12 per cent.—Lincoln County News.

We are glad to learn that the Secretary of State has voluntarily relinquished the monthly pension of $30 to which he was entitled under a strict interpretation of the law, but which he did not need.

This highly creditable act of Judge Gresham has been performed unostentatiously and without the slightest attempt to advertise it. When questioned on the subject the Secretary replied: "I have made up my mind that the public is not interested in the matter." We think he is mistaken about that. The public is very much interested, and in order that the example thus afforded to other well-to-do pensioners may be effective, it is proper that the praise-worthy conduct of the Secretary of State should be widely known and admired.—N. Y. Sun.

GRESHAM'S PENSION.

The Secretary of State Has Been Drawing It for Thirty Years or More.

But Voluntarily Relinquishes it now
Because He Does not Need It.

ONE HONEST PENSIONER.

When the present Administration began its attempt to purge the pension list, the San pointed out the fact that honest efforts in that direction would be greatly embarrassed by the circumstance that many veterans of high political standing continued to draw their pensions regularly, although notoriously in no need of pecuniary assistance from the Government.

There are thousands of pensioners on the rolls who have technically a perfect claim upon the Government for the money they are receiving, but who are no more within the class for which the pension system properly exists than if they had neither suffered nor served in the Union army. Some of them are millionaires. Some of them are doing daily the work of at least ten able-bodied men, and are earning incomes commensurate with their business energy. Their power to take care of themselves in the world has been in no way impaired. In all such cases the element of disability to provide fully for the support of themselves and of their families is wanting, yet that element of disability is the primary qualification of a legitimate pensioner, under any reasonable interpretation of the Government's responsibility to the disabled.

Conspicuous among such cases is that of WALTER G. GRESHAM, Secretary of State in the Administration which undertook the immense job of pension reform. Gresham was severely wounded in the leg while leading the Fourth division of Buia's corps in the fighting at Atlanta. He was legally entitled to pension, and he has been drawing one for twenty or thirty years, for a great part of the time, at the rate of $30 a month.

Nobody supposes that in cases like Judge Gresham's the motive of the pension is wholly venal. The money received from the United States Treasury amounts to little. The monthly payment is welcomed chiefly because it comes as a reminder and a certificate of patriotic service rendered and of honorable wounds received in defense of the country's flag.

Nevertheless, there is a still higher conception of honor and personal dignity which should impel all well-to-do pensioners to ask themselves whether their moral right to pecuniary assistance from the public funds is as good as their legal right. Should they continue to draw pensions which they do not need?

The question is rather delicate in an individual case, but we ventured some time ago to present these considerations to Secretary Gresham in the hope that his patriotism and good sense might suggest an answer which would afford a useful example to the public and facilitate the general work of pension reform.

I attended a log lifting yesterday and feel "kinder" string-haltered this morning, the result of old Uncle Stephen Gilmore failing to "fool" up his "seen" quick enough. Verily believe the old man was trying to raise a laugh on me anyhow. Better look out old man, I'll tell the readers of the News how you served that old hog of yours that couldn't quit climbing the fence. Ha! ha! ha!

A protracted meeting is in full blast at the colored Baptist church in Brandenburg, and "Tom Sawyer" don't get any rest day or night. "Auntie" he takes his country girl one night and the next night he takes his town girl, so it seems that it is a race of pull Dick pull devil between 'em. What, oh, what! will be the result?

The have among sheep by dogs still continues. More than a hundred have been killed within the limits of five or six miles. All efforts to capture the blood-thirsty demons have proved fruitless. The correspondents of the Messenger are warmly discussing the stock law question. In my judgment a dog law would be vastly more valuable to the farmers hereabouts, just now.

A general discharge of obituary from our candidates fell into the anxious ears of quite a number of worthy sons of toil at Thompson's on the 30th inst. Judge Rawlin led off followed by J. W. Vesels and S. P. Woolfolk, aspirants for the same office, that of County Judge. As of yore "Quire Vesels offered the cheap-John plan of salvation, but there didn't seem to be any stick in it. Then R. H. Nevitt, for County Clerk, delivered a somewhat lengthy and telling speech. Dick was in fine trim for speaking and a bystander could readily see that his every word struck deep into the minds of every one present. Not a murmur of disapprobation was heard from a single individual. The question was sprung by his opponents relative to employing help to discharge the duties of the office. But it was palpable to all that no one man, no matter how slowly he labored, could with justice to his constituents finish up the work, in all its minor details, such as copying etc., etc.

Next on the floor were Dick's opponents, V. H. Mattingly and J. R. Willett. Mr. Mattingly delivered a rousing speech in which he seemed to be greatly favored by the poet's muse. One would naturally think that he had spent a life time worshipping at the muse's shrine. Mr. Willett delivered a short but pointed speech and he seemed sanguine in regard to his chances of success. He seemed to want to leave the impression with the people that Nevitt was getting too fat to attend to business and if they would put him (Willett) there, he was so damned poor, he could work like a Turk. Both Willett and Vesels became "grandiloquent" in their endeavors to force the idea upon the minds of the people that it was necessary to have a man in office who would pledge himself to act the part of chief cook and bottle washer. Mr. Vesels said that he was willing to furnish his own stationery and fuel. There was nothing said in regard to building fires and cleaning spittoons, but I suppose they consider that a duty incumbent upon them. When you buckle down to such onerous duties my friends, I am afraid that instead of getting fat, you'll become as poor as a church mouse.

Say I wonder if I couldn't get a pull at one of those offices? I am mighty leary I need something monstrous bad to fatten me.

Tom Hamilton (for County Attorney) stepped out and announced his intention of making the race for County Judge. He noticed his mistake in time, however, to rectify it before Judge Rawlings and Patch Woolfolk belted clean away. "Quire Vesels was prescribed for about five cents, then revived and went on in the even tenor of his way. The fact of the business is, Tom had eaten too much dinner, and not having indulged in his accustomed smoke, his nerves were all out of whack.

Speeches from candidates as aspiring for the various other offices were short and sweet. The whole posse consisting of 'em seemed to be in good spirits. As yet all is as calm and serene as a painted ship on a painted ocean, on the surface but in my mind's eye I can see my inward anguish, a consuming fire, a spark from which will soon fly out and scatter here and there like young blue birds from their parent nests. Many hopes that are now bright will soon be tossed hither and yon by the foaming billows of oratory to sink 'neath the dark waves of dependency.

After all the local candidates had said their say an old grey-haired sire took the stand and after reading a lengthy, arid from some journalistic pen, in low sweet tones, he broke the spell of carousal that seemed to be gathering upon the minds of men, by exclaiming at the top of his voice, "I'm a candidate for president." We have not yet learned whether he was presiding over the inhabitants of the Sandwich Islands, or intends coming Grover Cleveland, or it may be he intends settling down in some national bank near home.

Cooks for hotels and restaurants as well as for private families are fast settling down to the conviction that Salvation Oil is absolutely necessary for burns, scalds and chapped hands, and they show their faith by keeping it on hand.

SAME OLD STORY.

Mollie Fortner, of Union Star, Tells a Tale of Woe to Louisville People.

Mollie Fortner a nineteen-year-old girl, about to become a mother, was in Louisville last week applying to the Charity Organization for aid. She claimed to be from Union Star, Ky., and she implied a prominent citizen of that locality, as being the father of her unborn child. The man's name is kept out of these columns because we want to believe he would be guilty of the deed in the manner in which he is accused.

The girl's tale is a sad one indeed. She says that the man in question lived under promise of marriage and refused to keep his word. He assigned as his reason for deserting her that he was going to marry another girl, and he said that if she believed he would be guilty of the deed in the manner in which he is accused.

The Patton Brick Works started on Monday at 7 o'clock a. m., and ran until noon yesterday.

An attempt was made to start on the Monday before, but when the laborers arrived at the place they learned the rate of wages that Mr. Patton proposed to pay them and they refused to go to work.

Mr. Patton then went to Louisville and procured about a dozen men whom he sent down. After these men arrived they learned that there was a strike on and refused to go to work, and one man returned to Louisville.

Finally after spending a week in idleness and discussion, all hands thought they would give the work a trial at Mr. Patton's figures and see what they could do. Consequently on Monday morning the works started with a full set of men in the machinery shed and clay pit, which was all that could work until some brick were made.

The clay pit men and other ordinary laborers were getting about 25 cents per thousand, and up to yesterday at noon 17,000 brick had been made.

During the noon hour the men assembled in the mill shed and discussed the question of quitting. However, when the whistle blew at 1 o'clock they all went to their respective places. The imported men were about all working in the clay-pit. Soon after they had gone down to their work, one of them returned to the mill shed and held a short conversation with a Louisville man who was at work in the mill shed. He then returned to his companions in the pit, and they all came marching up stating that they had quit work.

The Cloverport men in the mill shed joined them and all went out together, and the machinery stopped.

Mr. Patton was out of the city yesterday and could not be seen by a News reporter. The men claim that they have shown a willingness to work and do what is right by giving it a sufficient test.

At Mr. Patton's figures. They say that of course, things were not running as smoothly as they would in a few days, but that the trial satisfies them, and that, with everything in perfect trim, they can not make over 25,000 brick a day under present circumstances. They say they are not 50 cent men, and will not work for nothing. They claim that to make living wages at Mr. Patton's figures they would have to turn out the rise of 40,000 brick a day, which they say is impossible with the surrounding facilities.

Everything is quiet at present, and it is to be hoped that when Mr. Patton returns the present situation will be adjusted without further trouble, and that the work will progress in a profitable way, both to Mr. Patton and the workmen.

LEADS—As we go to press late at night a large number of resentful workmen in being held in Fier's Hall preparatory to perfecting a labor organization. The meeting is being addressed by Judge J. B. Deane, who is speaking upon the minds of his hearers that nothing should be done rashly nor without the aid of the law. The men are right then go ahead and the people of Cloverport would stand by them.

One of the leading citizens of the city are at the meeting.

A GOOD MAN GONE.

F. M. Folk, of Perry County, Ind., Passed Away Last Sunday Morning, March 28.

Tombstoner, Ind., March 27, 1904. Francis M. Folk, the subject of this sketch, was born April 8, 1850, and at the time of his death he lacked but a few days of being 54 years of age. He was the son of Thomas Folk and the daughter of Chas. Folk, one of the first settlers in Folk's bottom and a Baptist pastor.

Francis was reared on the farm of his father and received a good common-school education. He was a very successful financially. After his father had given up the nursery business on account of his declining years, Francis took it up and ran it most successfully, part of the time on his own account and part with J. C. Shoemaker of Indianapolis.

In course of time other business was added to the nursery and he was called upon to abandon the business and consequently he turned his attention to horticulture, which business he carried on until the time of his death.

It was his habit to take Sunday time by the forelock. So he ventured too far and worked when the weather was not fit for a well to work, saving a piece of ground to clover, from which he contracted a deep cold that developed into pneumonia and continued to grow worse and worse in spite of all the medical treatment he was summoned into a little more than a week's time he became very ill and died on March 28, surrounded by a host of friends and relatives.

He leaves many warm friends and relatives to mourn his loss, as well as a wife and three children. He is survived by a mother and one sister having preceded to the far beyond.

Fortunate was he remained rational throughout his entire illness and as he always had an eye to business it did not break him in his last hours. He is for an official and arranged all of his affairs and it is believed it did not leave him to his grief.

He was kind and generous to the poor line of his friends, which is a friend in need. When his wife went out of the most remarkable case of grief.

He was buried Monday at 5 o'clock, with a large attendance, at the upper grave yard.
